SLE001

International breaks DJs to visit St Austell

- D-Ranged and Rektchordz confirmed
- Scene is set after successful launch

Following the successful launch of 'Beats and Pieces' earlier this month, The Sonic Losers Experiment will be promoting a sequel to the event being held in Puls8 this Thursday 3rd of May 2007. Established by local resident Stan Collins, the night has already proved a vast development over previous Thursday night promotions with initial participation well over two hundred. The monthly event will feature an array of different DJs and is set to kick-start the dance scene well into the summer.

Stan Collins is no stranger to promoting successful dance events, in previous years he has been involved with many productions in the London area. Now living in Cornwall, he aims to build a collective of local DJs, producers and clubbers in order to promote a monthly night which will appeal to people who want something a little different.

Stan Collins, Beats and Pieces event Manager says "If anyone wants to get involved with 'The Sonic Losers Experiment' please email us at thesoniclosers@hotmail.co.uk or get in touch through the web page www.myspace.com/thesoniclosers".

In addition to some of the usual suspects, the event is due to be headlined by two of the most upcoming breakbeat artists on the international scene... D-Ranged and Rektchordz, both of which play world wide to huge crowds in Spain, the USA, and the UK. Beats and Pieces runs from 9pm until 1am with tunes ranging from House to Breaks. The scene is set for it to be one of the most unique nights on the local clubbing calendar.

Notes to editors

The Sonic Losers Experiment are...

Stan Collins www.myspace.com/standafunkman

Stan Collins got into the breakbeat sound in the late 90s and now plays a mixture of breaks, electro, house and techno. After returning from travelling in Asia he noticed that the area was missing something and set about creating the Sonic Losers Experiment.

D-Ranged www.myspace.com/drangedifim

D-ranged (Ben Smithson) makes up one half of 'Inspiration For Idle Minds' (also known as IF:IM) with his younger brother Rektchordz (Jamie Smithson) along with the vocal talents of Dean Forrest and Luke Holmes. D-ranged is also known for his DJ skills in addition to solo production work within the heavy breaks scene. Working with record labels such as Mechanoise, Down Beat, Unstable, Bombtraxx, Bastard, Viral, Ad6 and Trans:verse

Rektchordz www.myspace.com/rektchordz

Rektchordz objective is to create an original blend of various styles and genres to create a sound that is not only fresh but completely dance floor friendly... having an open mind to all music and letting their sounds influence his work is the reason behind his growing popularity. Along with his individual projects Rektchordz also joins his brother D-ranged to create IF:IM who aim to create a more vocal, live sound whilst again maintaining the dance floor vibe. Over the last 4 years Rektchordz has been working for labels Bombtraxx, Trans:verse, Unstable, Downbeat, Play Recordings, Viral, Mechanoise, BreaksFM.

Emma 'Panda' Holland www.myspace.com/thesoniclosers

Emma joined the collective to share her design ideas and now is the chief designer and flyer creator.

Mat White www.eightrax.com

Mat is the latest addition to the collective, and is one of the supporting DJs for the event, in addition to handling the media communications.
